I have used crosspost to respond to one of the answers to a question I had asked on this site. Unfortunately, it seems that when my response to this question appeared in the dialogue, it was marked as "pending approval by moderators". I guess this is a good thing, since I should really do some more work on it. The problem is that my crosspost disappeared and I cannot find it anywhere. Is this intentional? How can I find it again? My recent posts don't show that either, so I cannot even see if anyone's approved it. A: It was deleted because the question it was attached to was deleted. 1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a semiconductor device in which a semiconductor element is mounted on a substrate, and a method for manufacturing the semiconductor device. 2. Description of the Related Art In recent years, great demands have arisen for reductions in size, power consumption, and costs of semiconductor devices. Semiconductor devices used as switching elements for power switching have been directed toward lower costs and smaller size, and wide-gap semiconductor materials, such as SiC (silicon carbide), GaN (gallium nitride), and AlGaN (aluminum gallium nitride), have been actively developed. These wide-gap semiconductor materials are used 3e33713323
